MAJOR LEAGUE MANAGERS

Two New Pilots Will Take Hold in 1917-Fred Mitchell and Jack Barry Will Make Their Debut as Managers.

Among the major league club managers signed up for the coming season are two brand new pilots—Jack Barry of the Red Sox and Fred Mitchell of the Cubs. Barry, who succeeds Bill Carrigan as leader of the world's champions, will be the only playing manager in the American league, and most likely the only pilot performing regularly in the entire big show.

As a player Barry ranks with the top-notchers of the game and has the distinction of being the only pastimer who has taken part in six world's championship series, four with the Athletics and two as a member of the Red Sox. He starred in the short field with the Athletics for seven years and then moved over to second base. After joining the Red Sox he displayed the same brand of brilliant playing that had won distinction for him in Philadelphia.

Barry will be 30 years old next April. His first baseball experience was gained as a member of the Holy Cross college team. After leaving college in 1903 he joined the Athletics and with Eddie-Collins formed one of the great Keystone combinations. Barry is married and makes his home at Worcester, Mass.

The council reported that it was believed to be for the best interests of the association that Dartmouth, which in recent years has seemed to outclass at the annual track and field games the other colleges represented, should tender its resignation, and the students at a mass meeting ratified the suggestion.

In the last 25 years the Dartmouth athletes have been defeated for first honors in the New England Intercollegiate meets only three or four times. All the smaller colleges of this section are members of the association.

VETERAN OF LEAGUE Evers Wants to Play Ball Long Enough to Be Oldest Player in Point of Service.

Recently in New York city Johnny Evers declared it to be his ambition to play ball long enough to be the oldest player in point of services in the league. "Now that Matty has become a bench manager," said Evers. "the only player who has been in the league longer than I have is Honus Wagner, and even Honus cannot go on forever. One by one I have seen all the men, except Wagner who were in the league when I broke in, pass from active service.

ball writers called me a consumptive and intimated that it was a shame that I should be allowed to play. They looked for me to last one or two years at most. Well, I'm still here and I'm pretty tough yet. When I was playing the best ball that I ever played I never weighed over 135 pounds.

"I started playing with the Cubs back in 1902. We had been in Pittsburgh and jumped back to Chicago to play a Sunday game. We lost our first baseman and Sallee took Chance from behind the bat and put him on first, much against Frank's wishes. Then our catcher was hurt and Chance was sent back behing the bat. Bobby Lowe was moved to first as I was the only utility infielder available they put me on second.

that day and I made three hits off him and drove in a couple of runs. but this was because I was new and he didn't know how to pitch to me. What attracted attention to me was that with Wagner on first a man hit a ball down toward second base. I had to come in for it, and as Wagner went behind me I saw that I had no chance to get him. The man going to first also, was a fast runner, as most Pittsburgh players were in those days, so burgh players were in those days, so I bluffed to throw to first and took a chance that Wagner would try for third. He did and I got him 10 feet off that bag.
